What

Learn how to tie NGSS standards to energy efficiency with this hands-on professional development workshop!

Three Nevada educators were selected at the start of summer to attend the National Energy Conference for Educators. From that experience, these educators are bringing back what they learned to share with fellow teachers in two FREE Professional Development Workshops. Both workshops offer continuing education credits for teachers who attend and complete the accompanied surveys. These workshops will help educators gain confidence in building NGSS-aligned lessons around energy concepts for their classroom.
